TRENTON, KY.

Sketch of the Town and its Various Mercantile Interests.

The pleasant little town of Trenton, Ky., is located in Todal county, 16 miles from Hopkinsville and 55 miles from Nashville, Tenn. It has a ·····*1,00 thrifty and industrions class of business men and a highly cultivated population numbering 500 souls. The town of Trenton was incorporated in the year 1810 and was at that time in Christian county, but Todd county was subsequently cut out of a portion of Christian, and Trenton's history became identified with the new county. For two generations it was a quiet little country village, but when the Evansville, Henderson & Nushville railroad, now a division of the Louisville & Nashville lines, was bullt some sixteen years ago it passed through Trenton and the sleepy little vlllage became a wide-awake town with progressive ideas and higher asplrations. It now has about a score of business houses and nowhere can be found a better class of merchants and tradesmen. They are clever, accommodating, conrecons and polite, and as a natural result they, almost without an exception, do a prosperous and Incrative business. *

THE CHURCHES.

There are in the town five churches. The white p pulation owns and spice talns three-the Itaptist, Methodist and Christlan, while the volored people have two-lboptlst and Methodist. They all have good bonses of worship and each denomination bas a good congregation made up of the people in and adjacent to the town. Rev. Mr. Wnddell is pastor of the Itaptist church; Rev. Pevton Thomas of the Methodist and Reva Mr. Lockett of the Christian. The Haptlst denomination has a floorishing Sunday School which meets every Sabbath morning. The community, taken colntelligent.

THE SCHOOLS.

One of the most uonsensical and censurable things the Lower House of the Legislature has done was to pass a bill allowing Mr. Payne, of Warren, to drawhis per diem up to the time he resigned, although he never took his seat, or even went to Frankfort. It amounted to about $300 and the bill passed by a vote of 51 to 18.

Two failures among the Louisville tobacco warehouses last week, for $67,000 and $75,000 respectively created quite a panic amongst the banks and many of them sent representatives to inspect the tobacco on hand were interested. The failures had a very depressing effect on the trade as $10,000 insurance. the People's and Pike warehouses, the ones that failed, were two of the most trusted houses in the city.

THE PECULIARITIES OF SMALL-POX. It is one of the most communicable of all diseases, being both contagious and infectious; that is, it may be communicated by touching a person who has it, or by tonehing a garment he has worn, or an article that he has handled, or it may be carried in tho air, and thus commnnicated to a person who never saw nor ever came very near to one afflicted with it. It may come from handling paper money; it may be brought by mail in a newspaper or letter, or in a package by express; it may be caught by a fellow-traveler on a railroad, or from a passer-by in the street, or from the casual visit of a friend. The germs of it will remain in bed clothing, carpets, and the like, for months, and, perhaps, for years. It respects no season of the year and no spot on the earth. It visits the tropics; it has slain its millions in Mexico; it nearly depopulated Greenland: it reaches the monntain tops and breaks out in mid-ocean; it has no favored localities; the whole earth is its home. Its most frightful slaughter was in the seventeenth and eighteenth centrailroads and no steam, and but little commerce, no express companies, and but little mail matter, and but very little travel in any way. SOME SEVERE WINTERS.

In the course of the winter of 1814 not only was the list of persons whe perished in the snow a painfully long one, but many animals were lost, particularly sheep. There were, however, some remarkable instauces of the latter being rescueil, after a protracted intombment. One belonging to a geutleman in the South of Scotland was resenred after having beeu buried six weeks. It was not much the worse for its imprisonment: for, after a little stambling, it was able to walk home before the shepherd, and by and by was as strong as the rest of the flock. On the 22d of February, a sheep belonging to a farmer in Berwickshire was dug out, after having been fer fourteen days intombed in the suow.

The great storm of 1795 lasted for fifty-one days; and on a simultaneous to the wise old simpler, the eager small appeal being made to the "Oldest Inhabitant" in all parts of the country, that venerable personnge positively failed to conjure up from memory a parallel winter, unless, indeed, it was that of 1740. On the Thames, there was a general suspension of commerce, and it was said there were no fewer thau 300 vessels fast in the ice. During the onths of January and February, a great many persons perished in the suow or from the cold-and not a few in cirenmstances exceedingly painful. But there was also a very considerable cata logue of gallant rescues. We select the following two examples of deliverance effected by the agency of the dumb animals, that have always beeu among the best friends of man. One day toward the end of January, a Norfolk farmer, while returning home from the town of Norwich, became so beuumbed by the cold that he was compelled to lie down in the snow. He would undonbtedly have perished but for his dog, which, with a pathetic sagacity, slretched its body across its master's breast, and so pretected his lungs from the cold. In this position it lay for several hours, until at length, by coutinued barking and howling, it attracted attention and re-

An almost equal power of discernment was displayed in the following instauco. About the same period, while a farmer near Huntlycote was, with the assistance of his shepherd, relieving some sheep from the snow-drift at the side of a bank, a large quantity of snow shot down in the form of au avalanche from the higher ground, and enveloped the two men. There they must have remained and perished, but for the sagacity of their two faithful collies. The two dogs at once scampered home, and, by their excited demeauor and continuous howling, aroused the suspicions of the women, whom they by and by induced to follow them to the spet where their masters were buried. Arriving there, the animals commeuced to scrape the snow; aud, the situation having thus beeu made plain, the meu were dng ont, after a confinement of six hours, of which, however, they were not much the worse.-Chambers' Journal.

ANIMALS AND TIME.

It seems evident that some animals at least know when Sunday comes. A friend of mine has a dog who always runs with the wagon. On week days the wagon turns to the right from the gate and goes down to the factory. On Sunday it turns to the loft, and goes to church. The dog runs ahead; ou Sunday he turns to the left, and no intimation is given. Six days the sagacious animal runs in advance to the factory. Even the horse understands the day as well as the way to church. No oue that ans passed a week day in Venice will nave failed to see the pigeons fed at the hour of uoon. More than 100 of these little birds have come at noon for their food. They uever mistake the hour. When the bell of St. Murk's begins to clang out the hour of noon, not a bird can be seen; befere tho bell ceases the air will be black, and doves by the hundred fly to the windows. On Sunday no grain is given. The old bell jars ont 12 o'clock, but no birds appear. They can count-they know when Sunday comes, -- Exchange.

When Auerbach, the German novelist, was a young man he was persuaded to try his luck in a lottery. He dreamed that 17,586 was the lucky number. He discoverd that this had been in the possession of a rich family, who had played with it for sixty years, and who, although it had drawn nothing, would not part with it. It will not take long, at this rate, to bring the business of dramming up trade into such disropute that it will be worse than useless to engage in it at all.

In their dilemma they are prudently casting about for some means of adding fuel to their fire or of reviving the almost defunct spirit of the palmy days just after the war, when a drummer had only to take fine quarters in a first-class hotel, and get all the merchants in the town boiling drnnk, to be able to rake in the orders for goods at the rate of a cool couple of thousand dollars a liek, Two great firms, at least, in New York city, think they have hit upon the very idea, They have each taken two of their youngest, best-looking and cheekiest salesladics, and sent them out on tho road with samples to work up the trade, which, under the old system of drumming, was fast slipping away from them. The success of the ludies has been quite phenomenal. We are informed that bardly in a single instance have they failed to seeme large orders from the reealeitrant merchants who have gone back on the drnmmers of the bifurcated garments. Surely the astute tradesmen of Gotham are ahead when it comes to the ways and means of seenring and holding trado. - Tribune and Farmer.

A DUTCHMAN'S GUESS. A Dutchman, sitting in the door of his tavern, in the far West, is approached by a tall, thin Yankee, who is emigrating westward on foot, with a bundle hing on a cane over his shoulder. " Vell. Mister Valking Stick, vat you vant?" inquired the Dutchman.

"Rest and refreshment," replied the "Supper and lotchin', I reekon?"

"Yes, supper and lodging, if you "Po ye a Yankee peddler, mid chew-
